GLENDALE WINS FIRST PRIZE FOR FIFTH TIME AT PASADENA

OUR PEACOCK TO BE SHOWN AT THEATRE

Sid Grauman Secures It for Egyptian Court of
His Theater

BIG BOOSTER BIRD

Chobe's Masterpiece of Civic Expression to Advertise City

So impressed was Sid Grauman with the Glendale float, first prize winner in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena that he got busy on the phone of Secretary Rhoades of the Chamber of Commerce New Year's afternoon and the secretary in turn got Mr. Chobe on the wire with a result that the float is to be taken to the Egyptian Court connected with Grauman's Hollywood Theatre, there to be on display for the next two weeks, placarded for Glendale as the first prize winner with a picture of the designer, L. W. Chobe.

The float left for Hollywood this morning, Mr. Grauman agreeing to keep it redecorated with flowers and making it the beautiful centerpiece of his court.

In such a setting it will be an even greater advertisement of Glendale than in the Tournament of Roses because its beauty can be studied at leisure. Mr. Grauman wants the whole piece and has agreed to be responsible for the safety of the silver cups.

Extends Courtesy of Use of Peacock Picture in Morning's Issue

Through the courtesy of the Los Angeles Examiner and the International News Service, the Glendale Daily Press is able to reproduce today the big striking picture of Glendale's Peacock, from the original cut used this morning by the Examiner.

The International News Service, a part of the Hearst service, started Sunday to distribute photographs and cuts of the Glendale float throughout the thousands of subscribers to its great news cut service. It is today boosting Glendale.

Through the courtesy of both the Examiner and the International News Service, the Glendale Daily Press was able to reach in the works and secure the use of the original cut for reprint here.

Otherwise it would have been compelled to wait for this cut which is the best of those reproduced this morning, until it had reached the regular distribution center, New York.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Wednesday, fair. Light frost in the interior in morning.
Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Wednesday, with moderate temperature.

Mrs. Mary E. Lindsay, of Palmer and Adams, reported that a cushion was stolen from her car as it was standing in front of the Christian church Sunday night. Nothing has since been heard of the missing article.

GLENDALE PEACOCK STRUTS AWAY WITH THE FIRST PRIZE AT PASADENA FOR FIFTH TIME

Chobe's Confident Masterpiece of Floral Decoration Draws His Past Prizes Through Streets of City and Adds Another Amid Acclamation

SWEEPS ALL HONORS BEFORE IT IN SHOW

Designer Makes His Fifth Success in Original Design
Which Reflects the Proud Dignity of the Fastest Growing City in the United States

Class A, civic bodies other than Pasadena—
First, City of Glendale; second, City of Beverly Hills; third, Monrovia chamber of commerce; fourth, Hollywood chamber of commerce; fifth, City of South Pasadena; sixth, Orange Community chamber of commerce; seventh, San Bernardino chamber of commerce.

Monday Glendale added the fifth verse to that charming little ditty,
"It's an old, old story."

As that huge peacock strutted its way through the streets of Pasadena, before the thousands and thousands of residents and visitors to Southern California, it won the heart of every man, woman and child—and even the judges. Consequently the mammoth cut which goes with first award comes to Glendale to stay.

This wonderful float entry was a creation of the fertile brain of L.
W. Chobe, who designed the first-prize winners of former years. Too much credit cannot be given to this wonderful artist, who seems gifted with the knack of turning out the blue-ribbon features. The funds that were at Mr. Chobe's disposal this year were limited, this fact making his production all the more wonderful.

The "biggest hand" of the parade was given to the Glendale float. As it moved along the streets its passage was marked by one continuous cheer, and many were the favorable expressions concerning it heard by representatives of the Glendale Daily Press.

It was the general opinion that Glendale should have been given first honors. There was no dispute as to the "first place" entry.

This morning one of the Los Angeles papers said, concerning the Glendale float: "The Glendale float represented a huge peacock made of violets and other flowers, the breast of the peacock comprising 10,000 blue cornflowers and fifty bunches of violets; the wings being of Oregon grape. The peacock was driven by Randolph Bennett, 7 years old, the boy driving from a blue toy wagon loaded with dark red roses in the midst of which were pedestals bearing the beautiful silver cup trophies won by Glendale in former tournament parades."

Another morning paper had the peacock, on which the residents of the city of Glendale had staked their hopes, carried away the first prize for entries of civic bodies and for the fifth time in the history of the Tournament of Roses Glen-2457 lines of paid classified

the Prosperity Issue, New tracting the space taken up with two display ads and the comic pictures.

The Glendale Evening News carried 1845 lines, giving the Press a majority of 612 lines.
Figuring 189 lines to the column, the Press carried 13 full 9 3/4 columns.

The Glendale Daily Press, starting today, will carry a directory for classified ad-

HOLDUPS PUT VICTIM ON CAR

dale was awarded the capital prize.

"Mounted upon a trailer immediately behind the Glendale float were the four huge cups won in previous tournaments. Randolph Hollingsworth Bennett, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Bennett, 217 East Chestnut street, rode as guardian of the trophies."

The Glendale people, it must be acknowledged, are, in a measure, proud of being able to carry off the honors in the great Pasadena Rose Tournament, which is known the world over, and especially as this was the fifth "hit" registered by this city in the past six years. Last year, when the city failed to get the blue ribbon it was awarded a special prize.

So, in addition to being the fastest growing city in America she is the champion cup-winning city on this wide piece of real estate lying between the two "ponds." Those who have hold of the reins of the city are now casting around for more worlds to conquer.

The Rose Tournament itself was a gorgeous affair. There were several miles of floats and other features and the parade as a whole surpassed anything that has been held in recent years. The day was ideal and the crowd was immense.

From every angle the tournament was a huge success.

Those who had charge of the planning and constructing of the Glendale float were as follows:

Original float committee: J. G.
Huntley, chairman; L. W. Chobe and Peter L. Ferry.

Finance committee: C. C. Cooper, treasurer; Peter L. Ferry and J. G. Huntley.

Decoration and preparation committee: Mrs. Mable L. Tight, chairman; L. T. Royley and Harry Rogers.

E. F. Sanders was secretary of the entire float proceedings.

Mr. Chobe had full authority in the planning and the construction of the float.

The beautiful reproduction of the Glendale entry that appears in connection with this story was loaned to the Glendale Press by the Los Angeles Examiner. The photograph from which this cut was made was taken while the parade was in progress.

PREDICTS SKYSCRAPER ON SITE OF NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN TWENTY YEARS

Chairman of Building Committee Voices Optimism at Laying of the Cornerstone on Sunday Afternoon

DR. BAER CALLS FOR REDEDICATION

Rev. Cole Acclaims Building Thought for Children of Today and the Days of the Future, and Welcomes New Edifice

At the laying of the cornerstone of the Glendale Presbyterian church on Sunday, W. J. Clendenin, chairman of the building committee, declared that within twenty years the edifice now building would be too small for the congregation, that Glendale would by that time have grown to be such a city that the church would be offered $1,000,000 for its property and would sell that a skyscraper might go up on the site and move to a residence district. He confessed that when the matter of a new church was broached he was a little pessimistic for fear the church was building in Southern California had been greater than the majority of people realized, that the past year has witnessed more than fifty building enterprises in the Presbyterian denomination alone.

Elder George D. McDill, the new executive secretary of the building fund quoted the text, "Faith is the substance of things hoped for,"
and said he hoped it would be interpreted by church members as it was interpreted by the Salvation Army lass who said, "Faith is giving your substance for things hoped for." "That," said he, "is the part we will have during these coming days. We must work book to pocketbook throughout the months until we see this building dedicated."

Dr. John Willis Baer, who made the main address, referred to the point midway in the British channel, where the passenger can look back and see the coast of England and look forward to the coast of Jesus Christ and His church.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH HAILS 1923

Bids Old Year Farewell
With Worship, Song
and Retrospect

WORK IS REVIEWED

Attendance Double That at Any Previous Annual Observance

By O. L. KILBORN

Sunday, December 31, was crowded with good things for the membership of the Central Christian church. The morning sermon by Rev. C. A. Cole, was on "Seeing Things," and the subject for the evening discourse was "Turning Over a New Leaf."

At the close of the preaching service, the ordinance of baptism was observed, and then those present were divided into six groups.
Charter members, those who came in under Rev. Utter's pastorate, those under Rev. E. E. Francis, those who united since Rev. Clifford A. Cole came except during the past year; those who joined in 1922; any present not members of the congregation. Each group was tagged with differently colored slips of paper. One of these slips, bearing his or her name, was pinned on each person, so that introductions were not necessary. Then all went down to the social hall, in the basement, where after a "sing," by the congregation, led by Mrs. Edgar Lloyd Smith, reports of officers were taken up.

Interspersed among these reports were the various numbers which made up a program of absorbing interest. The numbers were as follows:

Violin solo, Miss Lucile Thompson; piano accompaniment by Miss Avis Thompson, her sister.

Vocal solo, Miss Elizabeth Mottern.

Piano solo, Miss Florence Hewcock.

Song, by quartet: Mrs. Kilpatrick, Miss Grant, Harry Marple, Mr. Lynn.

Song, Miss Irene Dayhoff, with duet refrain by herself and Mrs.
A. F. Jodon.

Readings, Garnet Peters.

Vocal solo, Mrs. C. C. Stoler.

Reading, Miss Gertrude Rye.

Vocal solo, Wilbur F. Struck.

Readings, Mrs. D. Mackay.

The roll call followed, with 352 answering. This number is almost twice as large as has been at any previous New Year's eve annual meeting.

The election of officers was next and 12 elders, 32 deacons, 6 deaconesses, Bible school superintendent and assistant, financial secretary, treasurer and missions treasurer, were chosen by acclamation.

Then the big birthday cake with its 14 small candles for the years of the congregation's life and six large candles, of different colors, representing successive stages of growth, was cut by Mrs. Cole, while her pastor husband "stood by" and aided. John M. Ray made a brief address, leading up to this ceremony. Mrs. Cole responded in happy vein and was heartily applauded.

It was now two minutes of 12 and the New Year pageant was put on. As the old year, represented by a staggering old man, with snow-white hair and beard, and bearing a rusty scythe on which was the number 1922, reached the center of the platform, Junior Fitch, a bright junior had stepped forward and declaimed "Ring Out, Wild Bells." Then came the mellow sound of the chimes, followed by the striking of 12. At the last stroke 1922 disappeared and a winsome fairy, little Jean Fitch, in bright raiment of wondrous beauty, came dancing in, as 1923. She and her brother gave the New Year acclaim and then the months, all appropriately costumed according to the eastern climate, came in, one by one, December bearing a gaily bedecked Christmas tree. Then all sang the booster song taught the children by Mr. Conner, winding up with "Happy New Year." It was now 12:03 a. m. of January 1, 1923, and refreshments of sandwiches, cake, coffee and chocolate were served to the more than 200 persons who had stayed to the end.
The total attendance was about 350.

France, and said: "On this 31st day of December it is well for a church like this to give a forward and a backward look. The laying of this cornerstone, important as it is, is unimportant unless you, who are part of this church, re-dedicate your own lives and consecrate your service at this time."
"Nothing that can be put into that cornerstone is comparable to the thing you and I can give now and resolve to give hereafter and that is unselfish, clean service for and look forward to the coast of Jesus Christ and His church."

HORSESHOE CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

George F. Paine Is Made President, With W. M. Holeman As Vice

The Glendale Horseshoe and Tourist club held its annual election of officers for 1923 Saturday afternoon on the ground, Central and Broadway, and increased the membership fee from 50c to $1, and the age limit for membership from 21 years upward.

The following officers were elected: President, George F. Paine; vice-president, W. M. Holeman; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Nicoles; being his seventh time for this office; managers for croquet courts and checker department, for croquet: A. B. Holt; checkers and chess, T. H. McKay, the chess expert; captain of the horseshoe pitcher teams, Oma. A. Fish.

The membership rolls show 170 members at the close of the year 1922. The club will make some improvements on the grounds, including a new croquet court in the near future, and will then have four courts. Visitors are welcome every day in the year except Sunday; no games of any kind on Sunday.

Walter B. Burger was elected delegate and D. D. Kinyon alternate to the California State Horseshoe Pitchers' association at their annual meeting to be held on the South Park, Los Angeles grounds, Saturday, January 6. Some fourteen clubs now compose the state association.

PEACH AND FIG MENACE TO BE DISCUSSED

FRESNO, Jan. 2.—New ways of meeting the menace of the nematode which is attacking fig trees in some sections of California, will be discussed at the annual fig institute of the California Peach and Fig Growers which will be held at Merced, January 19th and 20th. Particular attention will be given the use of nematode resisting root stock.

This discussion will be led by G. P. Rixford, plant physiologist of the United States department of agriculture, who will address the meeting, taking for his subject, "Some Unusual Members of the Fig Family." There are six hundred fig species that are near relatives of the edible fig, many of which, it is believed, are resistant to the nematode and can be utilized for root stock to overcome the menace. This root pest causes immense loss to the industry each year and it is believed that resistant stock offer the only practicable remedy.

TEXANS ARRESTED BY PATROLMAN IN SCHOOL

One Draws Revolver on Policeman—Connors, Who Captures Him

James Bennett, 24, of Tacoma, Wash., and Rorack Vaughn, 19, Plain View, Texas, were arrested at 3:45 this morning in the Glendale avenue school.

While Officer Connors was making his rounds, he saw Bennett sleeping in the building. He turned in the alarm to police headquarters, but before officers could respond from the station he located Officers Kerns and Nunn. Together three policemen went to the school.

They flashed a light on Bennett, according to the police report, which states further that Bennett ran across the room and, crouching behind one of the benches, leveled a revolver at Connors. Bennett did not shoot as Connors approached, but instead he sprang through a window and ran. The officer followed and fired five shots at the fleeing man. These did not stop him and the officer had to run him down and beat him on the head with the butt of his gun, according to the report.

Entrance was gained to the building by jimmying a door. Practically every locker and drawer in the building had been opened, police records state.

The men had in their possession a pillow slip and a chisel. They were locked in Cell No. 2 pending their hearing today.

NEW BANKS ARE BROUGHT INTO BIG MERGER

First National of Los Angeles Makes Important Announcement

Five new units will join the First National-Pacific-Southwest banking group on Tuesday, January 2. These are the Ocean Park bank, with branches at Venice and Santa Monica, the San Fernando National bank and the Community bank of Whittier. Through the method of decentralizing control, these banks will remain independent units, with the same officers, directors, stockholders and employees. After the merger they will be known as the Ocean Park Branch, the Venice Branch, the Santa Monica Branch, the San Fernando Branch and the Community Branch, Whittier, of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank.

None of the transactions entailed an outright purchase of stock. The stockholders of each of the banks, through an exchange of shares in the First National bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank and the First Securities company, become partners in the entire business of the First National-Pacific-Southwest group. Through the merger agreements there will be in each case continued local control. The benefit to the communities represented by the merging banks will be felt through the added capital placed at their disposal.

Under the statement of condition of September 15 last, the aggregate resources of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank and the First Securities company, were in excess of $200,000,000. Under the same call for statements the Ocean Park bank with its branches in Venice and Santa Monica, showed resources of $3,174,987.05; the San Fernando National bank $886,448.98, and the Community Bank of Whittier, $903,180.83.

The officers of the merging banks who will remain in control of the institutions are: Ocean Park Branch, T. H. Dudley, vice president and supervising director; Santa Monica Bay district, Venice Branch, Herbert H. Hertel, manager; Santa Monica Branch, Mrs. E. Vejar, manager; San Fernando Branch, Fred W. Prince, San Fernando branch president and manager, and Community Branch, Whittier, Fred Pease, Whittier, vice president and manager.

COMMITTED TO HOSPITAL—Clarence H. Schular, who, with his wife, came from San Francisco recently, to live with his father at 350 West California, was committed by Judge Lowe to the county hospital, Saturday, on account of what the police believe is mental derangement.

A short time ago, Schular, who is an ex-service man, was permitted to leave a hospital in San Francisco, according to police records, which further states that shortly after he reached the county hospital in Los Angeles he became extremely violent.

CHICKEN THIEVES ABROAD—Someone is stealing the chickens belonging to Mrs. C. E. Rich at 1022 Boynton street, according to the police records. Last Friday Mrs. Rich lost 18 of her large, thoroughbred Rhode Island Red hens, which are valuable. Nothing as to their whereabouts has been learned.

BOYS BREAK WINDOWS—Several windows were broken in the Tropic Presbyterian church at about 9:15 o'clock Sunday night. It is believed that the breaking was done by mischievous boys. The matter was reported by Rev. Winward, pastor.

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB MEETING IS SET FOR TODAY

To Visit San Gabriel to Inspect Plan of Organization There

Oakmont Country club officials and members met today at 11 o'clock and will proceed to the San Gabriel country club where an elaborate luncheon will be served and after an inspection of the club with a view to incorporating certain of their most desirable features in our Oakmont Country club, golf will be indulged in and all look forward to a most enjoyable day.

Among the prominent Glendale men present were Dr. E. H. Parker, Jack Huntley, Dan Campbell, H. S. Webb, V. M. Hollister, A. L. Baird, S. B. Morse, Spencer Robinson, Roy Kent, Harry Hall and H. M. Parker. Scotty Chisholm, the noted golf writer, will also be a guest and will enlighten proceedings with his wonderful stories told in his own inimitable way.

The new year is opening bright for Glendale's own golf club and officials to be elected for 1923 from the above successful business and professional men, it can be readily seen that the club has a bright future with such men at the head of it.

The architectural department of the Roy Kent company is now drawing plans for the club house, and after the directors have accepted designs, the work of construction will be started and pushed to completion so that the members of this fashionable and exclusive club can enjoy themselves.

The actual work of laying out the 18-hole golf course is now under way and Max Behr, the noted golf architect is very enthusiastic over the prospects of giving the club a course that will be 6200-yards long and have several features that no other club in Southern California can boast of. The swimming pool, the largest at any of our many golf clubs, will be built at the same time as the club house and will no doubt prove a very great attraction especially to Glendale's younger set.

BURGLAR INVADERS COLORADO HOME SUNDAY

The home of Mrs. John Dunn, 446 West Colorado, was entered and robbed at about 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. When Mrs. Dunn returned home about that time she saw the lights in the home burning. She went to the garage and as she entered a man jumped out of the rear window and disappeared in his flight leaving a sweater belonging to Mrs. Dunn, that he had evidently decided to take. Other clothing and jewelry were taken.

SCHOOL ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO MEET TODAY

The advisory committee of which W. E. Hewitt is chairman, which is considering the problems of the city schools and a building program to relieve congestion, will meet this evening with members of the Board of Education.

The special committee appointed to negotiate with the Newport and Sparr Companies relative to a site in Verdugo Woodlands, of which John Bolen is chairman, is expected to report, also a committee of which Col. James Everington is chairman, relative to the wishes of patrons in the south part of Glendale regarding school improvement at the Mariposa and Cerritos Avenue schools.

It is expected this will be the last meeting it will be necessary for the advisory committee to hold and that by tonight it can adopt the recommendations it will present at the adjourned mass meeting to be called by Mr. Hewitt in the near future when it is hoped action will be taken instructing the Board of Education to call an election to vote for bonds for additional school buildings.

CITIZENS BUILDING IS REPORTED SOLD

Rumors are current in business circles that the Citizens' Building, sometimes known as the Chamber of Commerce Building, has been sold. Officials admit however that negotiations for a sale are pending and are soon to be announced.

Messrs. C. C. Cooper and E. U. Emery, both heavy stockholders, desire to free their investments for use in new enterprises, therefore the company placed the building upon the market.

STUDENT BODY TO HOLD ELECTION—The election of officers to the student body of Glendale High, which takes place twice a year, will be held January 25. Petitions will be gotten out this week for the candidates who will compete for the various offices.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT NAZARENE MISSION

Sunday, December 31, 1922, will be remembered by the members and friends of the Nazarene Mission as one of the greatest days in the history of the mission. There was an attendance of 31 at the Sunday school. This was followed by the preaching service, at which Rev. Swaney of Tujunga preached, using as his subject "The Mutual Relation of Christ and His People." The text was from the 15th chapter of John's Gospel.

At night Rev. Swaney preached again, using as his topic, "Consecration," taking the text from Romans 12:1-2. At the close of the sermon, when the altar call was given, four precious souls knelt at the altar and gave their hearts to Jesus. On Tuesday evening, January 2, we expect to organize a church of the Nazarenes here in Glendale. Rev. J. E. Bates of Pasadena, district superintendent of the Southern California District Churches of the Nazarenes, will be present to assist in the organization of the church. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights Rev. Swaney will continue his Bible readings, which were so much enjoyed last week. Everybody is urged to attend these meetings. If you come, once you will want to come again. The mission is located at 1002 South Glendale avenue, at the corner of Acacia avenue.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mrs. J. H. McMurtry of Lincoln, Neb., is spending the winter with her brother and family, Harry E. Wells, 1837 South Brand boulevard.

Joab L. Alexander of Lubbock, Texas, arrived in Glendale last week and expects to spend a year in California. At present he is a houseguest at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Alexander, of 202 North Central avenue. He will also visit a daughter at Redlands and a nephew at Orange, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Percy of 311 North Kenwood street, accompanied by Miss Kathryn Kitterman, Miss Dorothy Hamilton and Russell Briggs returned last night from a hiking party to Camp Baldy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Timmons of 325 Roads End, entertained with a dinner party on New Year's eve. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Timmons, parents of A. D. Timmons, Miss Margaret Ryan, Miss Marie Timmons, Leroy Timmons, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Endicott. Favors of caps and horns provided a great deal of amusement.

R. H. Crosby of Marshalltown, Iowa, has arrived with his bride from New Roads, Louisiana, and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Crosby of Glendale and W. G. Crosby of Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fortunato were dinner guests Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Caswell, 230 North Central avenue.

Mrs. Lottie B. Tracy of Los Angeles was the guest over New Year's of Mrs. L. W. Elliott of 350 West Oak street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nichols of 539 North Kenwood street, accompanied by C. Short of Los Angeles, returned last night from a very delightful week-end motor trip to San Diego and Coronado.

Mrs. W. L. Jencks and children of 409 North Maryland avenue returned Sunday night from a week's visit in Riverside. On New Year's day they attended the Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena.

Mrs. Theodore Pelce and daughter Patricia of 317 West Vine street were guests the past week of Mrs. J. G. Jones of Sierra Madre, formerly of Glendale. They returned last night.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES
Dr. Guy Wadsworth of Los Angeles was a guest of Rev. H. A. Kelso over Sunday and preached the morning sermon at the Community church.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Granjean and daughter Rose of Glendale, and Santa Monica, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fisher of West Altura street, for New Year's.

C. E. Culberson is expected home Wednesday evening from a two weeks' trip through the east. While east Mr. Culberson was the honor guest at a Christmas reunion with his brothers and relatives and visited his boyhood homes in Indiana and Ohio.

R. E. Starke, of Los Angeles, visited friends here during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dunlop and their daughter Zella Dunlop, were guests of relatives in Hollywood for the New Year's week-end.

Miss Janet Culberson, Miss Marion Keith, Robert Kelso and Walt Young, were guests of Miss Caroline Richard of Los Angeles, at a New Year's eve party, last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and family, of Highland Park, were guests of friends here Sunday. Mr. Moore is connected with the Sherwood school of music of Glendale and a former resident of La Crescenta.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Anderson returned today from a ten days' stay at Soboba Hot Springs.

Louis Potter and family of Banning, Calif., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Potter during the week.

LOOKING BACK TO FORGET IS TEXT OF EDMONDS

Local Presbyterian Pastor
Preaches From Phil.
3:12-14

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, after earnestly expressing an appreciation of the past with this congregation and the hope of great divine blessing on the days ahead, preached on "Looking Back to Forget," from the text in Phil. 3:12-14. "Not as though I had already attained, but I follow after, forgetting those things which are behind—I press toward the mark."

These words suggest three very valuable exercises—looking back to forget, looking within to compare, looking forward to aspire. We may look back in order the better to look forward; are you sure dead sure you know how you stand spiritually? Don't guess, there's too much at stake. There are people who settle down and stop; but that child who does not grow, there were better a funeral. Grow! But looking back, some things we would be glad to forget; be careful what you do—you've got to live with that the rest of your life.

Let us tie up some packages of forgetting and take them down and drop them in the sea.

Let us forget disappointments. I am disappointed in myself—haven't measured up. But yet nevertheless, we face the new year with confidence, for God overrules and makes all things work together for good of his own. Look back to forget discontent. Have you been whining? "Be anxious for nothing." Again, look back to forget your failures, and if you have failed, be charitable with the others who have failed. Let's bring in all the failures and let Jesus touch them.

Should we look back to forget our successes? There is the place where many have broken down; success is dangerous. There are churches that have failed with prosperity. May this church continue through all that is ahead of us. God forbid that we sidestep. Have you sidestepped? Then forget the

SALMACIAS MARK WOODEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Salmacia, of 361 West California avenue entertained New Year's eve and morning in celebration of their fifth, or "wooden" wedding anniversary. Very unique invitations were sent out on thin pieces of wood. The idea was also carried out at the dining table, where luncheon was served on wooden plates, with wooden knives, forks and spoons, and wooden favors of rolling pins, potato mashers, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Salmacia received a number of wooden presents from the guests.

Decorations throughout the house were carried out in a color scheme of red and green, typifying the Christmas motif. The new year was ushered in with a program of music, singing, cards and dancing. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Machotoff, Vincent Salmacia, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Salmacia, Jr., of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. William Daze, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lesage, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Barrera, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sullivan, Miss Clara Manger, Miss Marie Kill, Herbert Hoffman and M. Romaine of Los Angeles and little Margaret Salmacia, daughter of the host and hostess.

CREDIT MEETING POSTPONED

There was no meeting of the Glendale Credit Men's association this week and there will be none until next Monday. Secretary Pilling admitted there had been some call for a meeting to honor the wives of members which would be a social affair pure and simple, but that is a story yet to come.

success, and forget the wrong deeds of others. The devil delights in the remembering of wrongs.

We here are a family. God has placed us everyone as He has seen fit; don't get fussed up if yours isn't the top place. God did not make us alike; we had to be different.

We need to forget our experiences. You know people who have "arrived"; they got there and stopped. No, our experience is a thing that must keep growing with our living. God has all there is to give; He can give you all you need or want.

With all our forgetting let us not forget the prize that is set before us.

MONTROSE DANCES OLD YEAR OUT AND NEW IN

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 2.—One of the happy events of the week-end was the New Year's ball given at the school auditorium, last Saturday evening, by the chamber of commerce of Montrose. C. R. Pool was chairman of the committee on arrangements. Mrs. M. S. Collins and Mrs. M. Adams presided over the punch bowl.

HI PLANS ARE BROADCASTED

Architect A. C. Austin and his assistants are up to their eyes in work preparing plans for broadcasting, as it were, plans for the new high school plant at Verdugo and Broadway. The advertising for bids starts today and each bidder must be provided with a set of plans and specifications for study.

The specifications make a manuscript equal to the average book of fiction but there is little in the way of sentiment or adventure in the facts there set forth. At least fifty large sheets are required to present the plans.

SECRETARIES ON TOUR

Secretary Roodies and Assistant Secretary Sanders are starting the new year touring the chambers of commerce of Southern California as chief speakers at their annual meetings, and they say that Glendale will be their theme at all stops. Tonight they go to Compton, a week hence to Downey and on January 19 to Covina.

NAVAJO CLUB IS ENTERTAINED BY THE CARLISLES

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Carlisle of 625 West Myrtle street entertained the members of the Navajo Club at a dinner party Saturday night. The house was beautifully decorated with palmfruits and a Christmas tree. Gifts were brought by each one and placed on the tree. Each gift was numbered and the corresponding number was on a red ribbon leading from a turkey, which formed the centerpiece on the dining table, to each place card. After a course dinner was served each guest pulled the ribbon for the number and the gifts were then distributed. Christmas stockings containing candy were then taken from the tree and passed out.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing "500." Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Mary C. Root and E. O. Carlisle. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Overton, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Koontz and daughter Emily, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuller, Mrs. J. D. Root, Mrs. Mary C. Root, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Carlisle and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Carlisle.

BOYERS ARE HOSTS ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

A most delightful New Year's Eve party was held Sunday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Boyer of 232 North Orange street, with sixteen guests present. A magician from Los Angeles furnished entertainment for the early part of the evening, which was followed by music by a three-piece orchestra. A buffet luncheon was served at midnight. The house was decorated with flowers and candles. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCourt of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Goodwin and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fourl of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. M. Levey of Santa Barbara.

FATE RIDES XMAS JOY TO H. E. FRY

"Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, 1922-23. Hope you are well and happy. Hope you are covered with snow. Love to all John." This was the cordial holiday greeting received by H. E. Fry of 333 W. Cerritos avenue, from his brother, John E. Fry of St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada. At about the same time a telegram came saying that on December 26 John E. had suffered a stroke. After four or five days he passed away. He was well known to many Glendale people and frequently visited his brother in South Glendale.

HIGH SCHOOL IS INCREASING ITS NIGHT CLASSES

A. L. Ferguson Reports
Attendance of 70 Per Cent More Pupils

A. L. Ferguson, principal of the night school of Glendale High, reports an attendance 70 percent greater than last year at this date. The enrollment January, 1922, stood 396. They are now 636 and going strong. They give convincing proof of the popularity of this school.

The school reopens tonight and Mr. Ferguson says there will be room for additional pupils in many of the classes. In a large proportion of the subjects the work is so individual that a new pupil can start at any time without being handicapped.

A considerable number of the pupils who have been taking Spanish will be promoted to an advanced class and a beginner's class will be organized. There will also be room in sewing, millinery, penmanship, English, arithmetic and other branches of mathematics and in

REV. EDMONDS WILL ATTEND COUNCIL OF SYNOD

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Presbyterian church, went to San Francisco this morning to attend the annual meeting of Synod's Council of the Presbyterian church in California. Rev. Edmonds is a member of this body. He is expected to return Friday. While he is absent, the assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, will respond to all calls.

LA CRESCENTA WOMEN'S CLUB TO MEET

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 2.—The meeting of the La Crescenta Women's club at the school auditorium Wednesday, January 10, will be for members only and something of a family affair, as all members will be asked to respond to the roll call. Mrs. Charles Turck, chairman of the program committee, will preside during the program hour. Mrs. T. S. Minford and Mrs. E. W. Nettleton will be co-hostess of the afternoon.

BEISCAR HOME BURNED DOWN

Local Fire Fighting Apparatus Saves the New House

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 2.—The old home place and barn of Henry Beiscar on North Los Angeles avenue was completely destroyed by fire Sunday evening. Had it not been for the prompt response of C. J. Young with the local fire fighting equipment and neighbors, Mr. Beiscar would have lost his new home. The origin of the fire was caused by defective wiring.

ALL DAY MISSION MEETING IS SET FOR FRIDAY

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 2.—The missionary society of the Community church will have an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. A. Burton on Honolulu avenue Friday, January 5. The morning will be spent in making supplies for overseas hospitals. Miss Gladys Bickel will lead the afternoon mission study class.

How One Man Succeeded by Advertising

Ten Good Points for the Retail Advertiser

REGULARITY IS FOREMOST IN SUCCESSFUL RETAILER'S PROGRAM TO KEEP BEFORE THE PUBLIC
BIG DEALER SAYS SUCCESS IS DUE TO HIS NEWSPAPER ADS

A retailer, that has spent the greater part of his advertising appropriation in good newspaper copy recently related just how he carried on his advertising campaign. He gave ten points which had helped him to become a successful business man through advertising. The ten points were:

1. I advertise regularly. Every issue of the paper takes my story to its readers. I waste no energy in making people remember me. They do, and every ad means strength because of that.

2. I make every ad look like mine. Years ago I adopted a distinctive style and stuck to it. I use plenty of white space; my ads are never hard to read. And though the space I use varies, the typographical appearance always stamps them as mine.

3. I put into advertising a definite proportion of my gross sales. I fix this at the beginning of the year. My rule is to make it 3 per cent of the previous year's gross, with more if special conditions justify it. By putting most of it into newspaper advertising it accomplishes more than if I scattered my fire.

4. I brighten my ads with frequent illustrations, either humorous or practical.

5. I am careful never to overpromise. When I make claims I back them up with reasons. Then, when I really have an unusual bargain, people believe me when I "whoop'er up" a little.

6. I "think advertising" all the time. I buy goods that will advertise well. Sometimes I buy goods just for their advertising value.

7. I get good display for my ads by seeing that the copy is in the newspaper office in plenty of time. I do this by having a definite hour to write the copy, and letting nothing interrupt it.

8. Whenever possible, I carry the nationally advertised goods that are advertised in my own home paper. I feature them. Sometimes they give me a smaller margin than fly-by-night concerns, but I find that I sell faster and make more money in the end, besides pleasing more customers.

9. I always plan my window and counter display to link up with my newspaper advertising. Each helps the other. The woman who has seen my ad in the paper is reminded of it when she passes the store and sees what's in the windows.

10. My salespeople back up my advertising. They often help with suggestions for it, and they always read it. I insist on that. Moreover, we make a special point of courtesy and helpfulness to the customer. We try to have nothing happen in the store that would be an unsatisfactory memory when the customer reads my message in the newspaper afterwards.

Truths in Epigram

I am a great friend to public amusements; for they keep people from vice. — Samuel Johnson (1709-1784).

Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other. — Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790).

A blessed companion is a book—a book that fits chosen is a life-long friend. — Douglas Jerrold (1803-1857).

THE DANGEROUS AGE

If there is a "dangerous age" as frequently contended, there is no safe age, or a very brief one. Different students of the subject fail to agree upon the period most fraught with perils. Doubtless they draw their conclusions from experience. If they are young, or if during youth they had been exposed to dire temptation, then they select youth as the dangerous age. Or it may be that they received their impressions during early maturity. So are they convinced that they have discovered the portion of the human span through which the individual must walk alert, glancing around to detect and repel the enemy of the human soul about to make a grab. Then will come the thoroughly settled person who undergoes a moral upset as gray hairs are coming, and who promptly gives warning that middle life is the time to watch your step. There remains the aged individual who blossoms into a rounder just when he should be contemplating things not of earth. Nobody is immune.

Recently a girl of 13 was arrested as a burglar; was guilty, too. Another of 13 was recovered after a week's absence in company with a group of Mexicans. There was a third, also 13, taken in by the police for some dereliction indicative of a trend towards evil ways, while one of 11 ran away under the inspiration of an innocent Christmas book of adventure.

If there is a devoted mother or a skilled nurse in the home, the age of one to three, may be reckoned to be in the zone of safety. After that the individual acquires a degree of independence of thought and action. Then there is danger until the end.

LENGTHENING HUMAN LIFE

It would be impossible to cite even in a general way the many agencies that have tended to prolong the span of human life in this country. The fact is clear that as the average is fifty-six years, while in 1870 it was fifteen years less than this, people are learning how to take care of themselves. Despite the devastating rush that is supposed to mark the existence of Americans, the truth is that few work themselves to death. Persons accustomed to work, and ceasing because the necessity for toil has vanished, are prone to die soon thereafter, having, as they conceive it, nothing else to do. There was a time when sixty was regarded as ripe old age. The individual of seventy was as rare then as the one of eighty-five is now. But merely to add to the number of years may be a scientific feat not representing betterment. This view must be regarded as justifiable if the assertions of certain scholars are to be sustained.

Only the other day an educator affirmed in an address to teachers, that the individual who followed the general rule "died at twenty-three intellectually, and breathed his last at fifty-three." If intellectual demise sets in at the period when youth hardly has been rounded out, the stretch ahead is barren. It could be considered nothing but a period of stagnation. By adding to it enough years to bring it to fifty-six, as latest figures indicate has been done, it is hard to see that anything has been gained. The chief office of the intellectually dead must be to cumber the ground, the live ones hampered by the necessity of stumbling over the inert majority.

Probably it is more reasonable to assume that as men have learned to live better, so have they learned to live more wisely and usefully. The idea that the mind pauses in its growth is pessimistic in origin, nor does it accord with the findings of the general observer. The mind continues to function normally in the sound body. It may lose the zest of immature assurance; be freed from the notion that it has the mission of reforming the world, and be tolerant of the opinions of others. This does not argue its decadence, but rather is the sign of wisdom. Human life is worth prolonging. If its later years were to constitute a season of sterile mentality, it would not be worth prolonging.

CRIMINALLY INSANE

There are forms of crime, which, persisted in, indicate the mental incapacity of the criminal. An example of this is seen in a young man just sent to prison for forgery. The forgery was for a small amount, but it was one of a long series. The forger was from a good home. His sorrowing parents had done all in their power to reform him, but to no purpose. Like many of his kind he had the discretion to make each forgery represent a trifling sum. By this method many petty forgers escape prosecution, no individual loser thinking the matter worth the trouble of taking to court. In this the criminal does display a certain cunning, but otherwise his conduct is that of a fool. He shows that he needs restraint, and there being no place for his type of feeble-minded, he must go to prison.

The crime of forgery is certain of detection. The perpetrator is not caught invariably, but generally he cannot escape. Such an offender, brought before a judge, will plead for just one more chance. He will be tearfully penitent: Before has gone a block in freedom he will pass another forged check. Countless times has the demonstration been made that there is no possibility of reform for him unless he shall be deprived of liberty under influences not merely of restraint, but of moral suasion.

Very often the petty forger is a drug addict. Of course in such an instance, there is no hope for him unless through breaking of the habit that completely enslaves him, and rots body and soul. These facts bolster up the theory that a criminal may be mentally and physically an invalid, actually insane to the point of being helpless to save himself. To such an individual society owes protection; for he may be worth saving, while his salvation would tend to safeguard society itself.

THE SUBMERGED HERO

Recently a man was killed in the attempt to alight from an airplane upon a railroad train going at express speed. That any other result could have been expected by anybody, was due to the fact that this man had done scores of stunts that, according to natural operation of cause and effect, should have been fatal to anybody undertaking them. Perhaps he had conceived the notion from his series of escapes, that he was immune. Leaping from great heights into the water with his garments flaming; driving an automobile headlong across a broken bridge; jumping forty feet while mounted, down to a swift stream, alighting astride of his horse, both having to swim for life. These were a few of the performances required of the reckless substitute. Of course he was killed at last.

Perhaps he was highly paid for his perilous work, but never so highly paid as the "star," who observed the feats from some coign of safety, too wise or too timid to risk his own bones. It was this star, however, who later garnered the applause. He was regarded by the awed patrons of the films as a hero unparalleled. His photograph appeared in the papers, with a touching description of his home circle. The doer of stunts, the submerged and only real hero wins a respectful funeral.

It does not appear necessary that even in a picture, any one should drop from a moving airplane to a moving train. In actual life this really is not done. There is no occasion for it. As the screen is supposed to portray phases of life, its requirements ought to be determined by an intelligent conception of life, and so be robbed of a measure of their deadliness.

Marriage is a lottery and that's why the law interferes in so many cases.

LOVE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Probably the most interesting thing in the world is love.

On the one hand, nature has implanted the mating instinct very deeply in all the higher forms of animal life, and, on the other hand, the Bible informs us that love is the greatest thing in the world, and that God Himself is Love. Thus both from the flesh and from the spirit comes the confirmation of the importance of love. A few reflections upon the subject may be of interest.

1. True love is the one functioning of our nature that demands all of our personality. If one loves really, he must love with every hair of his head, and every thought of his mind.

2. To women love means more than to men, because the woman is the vessel which holds the destiny of the race.

3. Love is partly inherited from our beast ancestry, hence simple desire is crude and dangerous until it has been transformed by the spirit. The salvation of love is to idealize it.

4. The desire of the flesh is not evil of itself. It is the soil from which love springs. Without the earth in which to grow there can be no lily.

5. The force of passion is no indication of its duration.

6. Love can never be entirely forgotten. To give than to receive. One of the best foods of love is sacrifice.

7. Jealousy has nothing to do with love. It is merely wounded vanity. It is a mistake to say that one would not be jealous were he not in love. Jealousy can exist where there is no love, but merely pride of possession or position.

8. There can be no love without faith. If perfect love casts out fear, it also casts out doubt.

9. The stronger any force, the more it needs discipline. Love, being the strongest force of all forces, is that which needs discipline most. Love which knows no control, which is not criticized by the intelligence and which will not form for itself wholesome habits is as dangerous as the torrent which will not stay in the river bed or the fire which becomes a conflagration.

10. Love is the eye of the mind. There can be no clear vision or deep understanding without it.

11. Love is the reason for existence. Without it life has no meaning.

12. Love is the only unanswerable proof of immortality.

13. We cannot hope ever to rationalize love wholly, because it is a higher thing than the intelligence. Love must always be a little unreasonable and contain a certain element of danger, because love is life, and without adventure and danger there is no life.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

A CONTRIBUTION
Anonymous, Chicago, has sent The Right Word a sheet torn from "The Co-operator." A blue circle was drawn around the following: "Don't is quite correct in every case when the subject is plural or when it is 'I'. In all other cases, when the subject is singular, use doesn't." The intent of the foregoing rule is good, but it is not a little misleading. The first part of the rule is accurate. But if I am addressing some one and used the pronoun you, second person singular, according to the second part of the rule, I should use doesn't. Now let us see how it sounds: You doesn't know. Of course it is correct to say: You don't know, but not according to the foregoing rule. The Right Word offers a revised rule as follows: "Don't is correct when its subject is plural; when it is 'I', or when it is 'you'; in all other cases use doesn't." Examination of the rule will show that there is only one possible use of doesn't: it is when the subject is in the third person, singular; as he; she; it; book; Mary; house. So the person who has had trouble with don't and doesn't should read the following simple little rule and have no more difficulty in the future: Never use don't with such words as he, she, it, John, table, mountain, rain, or any other noun symbolizing some person, place, thing, or idea. (Note: Of course you is stylistically a plural pronoun, but it is used also in the singular in place of thou in modern English. This is the reason that a beginner in English might be puzzled in reading the rule taken from "The Co-operator." The Right Word desires to say that this discussion is intended only as a helpful criticism, since some one was interested enough to forward a copy of the article.

Ask and Have—By Samuel Lover (1797-1868)

"Oh 'tis time I should talk to your mother,"
"Sweet Mary," says I;
"Oh, don't talk to my mother," says Mary,
Beginning to cry:
"For my mother says men are deceivers,
And never, I know, will consent;
She says girls in a hurry to marry,
At leisure repent."

"Then suppose I would talk to your father,"
"Sweet Mary," says I;
"Oh, don't talk to my father," says Mary,
Beginning to cry.

"For my father he loves me so dearly,
He'll never consent I should go—
If you talk to my father," says Mary,
"He'll surely say 'No.'"

"Then how shall I get you my jewel?"
"Sweet Mary," says I;
"If your father and mother's so cruel,
Most surely I'll die!"
"Oh, never say die, dear," says Mary;
"A way now to save you I see;
Since my parents are both so contrary—
You'd better ask me!"

NECESSARY AND UNNECESSARY SORROW

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Catch phrases which encourage the denial of one's part in determining his life ought to be cut from the language as so many linguistic ulcers.

I've just read this and it comes from the pen of an able man:

"We must become acquainted with grief, tread the wine press of sorrow and adversity, that character may have a meaning in the workaday world."

Granted that sorrow is a necessary part of life's experience, that adversity is the rule and grief inevitable, I still maintain that the glorification of poverty has encouraged laziness more than industry, that adversity too long continued has destroyed more characters than it has built and that crushing grief too often results in an absolute paralysis of the will to strive. With the incentive to action gone, the average man will refuse to act. The trouble about all phrases which tend to glorify misfortune is that they furnish excuses for failures to explain their own lack of achievement. It is so much simpler for a lazy parent to say, "Oh, poverty is the great spur to effort," than it is for that same parent to himself put forth the effort that would remove his family from want.

Who but a genuinely superior character will apply his brains and powers of self control to the solution of his problems when he knows that he lives in a world that believes adversity a dispensation of a God whose will nullifies effort for the good of the soul. For, of course, if deprivation bauntifies the one who suffers it, God might with justice decree it.

Grief is a killing experience; and because it is so it behooves every honest and humane man and woman to do his best to reduce the sum total of pain and disappointment.

It is only when we face inevitable privations that we should accept them as part of the dispensation of Providence; and we should examine most carefully into our own powers before we accept anything as inevitable. We can never truthfully say "This is inevitable" until we have exhausted all honorable and intelligent means of curing the affliction and have so broadened our minds that we will look for means of relief in places which formerly we scorned.

All of which is not meant as a denial of the universal truth that development comes through struggle. What I mean is that catch phrases furnish excuses for refusing struggle. They are the justification of ineptitude.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

TONGUE AND PEN

[Washington Star]

Winston Spencer Churchill, defeated for reelection to parliament, will, for a time at least, turn to journalism. He will not be a novice in that field. He represented a London newspaper in South Africa during the Boer war, and had some lively experiences, showing an aptitude for correspondence and a spirit that led him far in quest of news. Sharpening his pen and getting a firm grip in that way, he wrote a life of his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, a brilliant but uncertain and erratic man, who during his certain years had stirred things in English politics. The son suggests the father in audacity and phrasemaking, and in making politics in his neighborhood worth a red-blooded man's while.

"Everybody's doing it now," Lloyd George, unshorn from leadership and with time to spare, is writing for the press. M. Clemens, retired from political office, has pen in hand again. H. G. Wells wanted to lay down his pen and employ his tongue in parliament, but the English constituency to which he appealed decided against him, and it is the pen for him again.

It is the era of newspapers. The journalistic salutation, What do you know? is passing away widely; and those who know something of interest and can tell it well on paper find ready employment.

WORRYING ABOUT "AL" SMITH

[Lowell Courier-Citizen]

Most of us, of middle-class affiliations, have known several Al Smiths in our comings and goings among men; and we may have been fond of and had inordinate respect for

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Occasionally a woman is arrested for burglary. It would be interesting to know what happens to her later. She never gets into court.

The meanest thing a wife deserter absent for years possibly can do is to come back.

Turkey is very jealous of its sovereignty because interference with it checks the sport of killing weaker neighbors.

If the Greeks are rushing into Thrace again, some higher power has intimidated a willingness to let them go.

Doubtless the failure of the conference was due to the fact that every country represented there wanted to get all it could.

Life is growing longer in this country, and the conditions it meets seem to improve.

more than one of these Als. One rather likes, too, the chap whom everyone knows as Al. No anglophobic pretense there. No parings of a name in the middle. No hyphenation. No insistence on the inclusion of a well middle name. Just plain, simple Al Smith. It's democratic as well as middle-class. It's American—100 per cent American, no doubt. One prefers Al Smith to Mr. J. Algernon Smythe. But as President of the United States? Well, one cannot but feel that in such event we'd be a bit apologetic in presence of condescending foreigners. We ought not to be so, of course. But President Al Smith would be pretty Main Streety, would he not?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Contempt of court is an offense concerning which opinions have, in instances, been adverse to the size of the penalty, or the principle involved in the fixing of any penalty. Judges have been known to be touchy on the subject of their own dignity, and to have goaded counsel into the expression of disrespect, and then imposed a fine for the natural response to the provocation.

An offense that tends to interfere with the course of justice is at a different status. It then ceases to be a personal matter between the perpetrator and the judge, for the offense is against the whole people.

One juror in the case of Mrs. Obenchain, a woman lately on trial for murder, has been fined $200 for having winked at the defendant, and having displayed evident cordiality towards the friends that attended her.

To wink at a pretty woman may under many differing conditions be an act of indiscretion. Ordinarily one so indulging would not be regarded as deserving a heavy fine.

This wink was more than a chance gesture. It was indicative of the spirit in which too many jurors regard a pretty woman who is accused. Because of this spirit, not manifested by a wink in each case, but shown in failure to try a woman on her merits, and as laws decree, the effort to convict several women believed to be guilty has failed.

Few more peculiar contests of a will have been known than that instigated by heirs of the late Clark Potter, millionaire. In an earlier day Potter had been known to the police of two continents as "Bill the Brute." In his old age he had lived quietly in Pasadena, a man of great wealth and few words, concerning whose career the public in general was uninformed.

This millionaire cut off a number of relatives. They now propose to get their shares, although in order to do so they will have to admit kinship with the former "Bill, the Brute."

President Harding says that this government is trying to be helpful to Europe. In asking congress to rely upon the state department rather than to assume a knowledge not possessed by itself, he is within his rights, and is preserving his dignity.

By his able assault on the position of Senator Borah, who as of yet is talking too much, Senator Lodge seems likely to win back some of his lost popularity.

If this country were given one guess as to which of this senatorial pair knew more about European affairs, and the intentions of the administration, the answer would make no mention of the gentleman from Idaho.

At this writing the Turks seem to have broken away from the conference. Probably it is just as well that they should have done so, since they cannot think in the terms of civilization.

However, none of the powers at the conference, admittedly civilized, has covered itself with glory. Too often to command respect, the different members were seen to reach for something they coveted, and to do this without especial regard for the rights of anybody else concerned.

When Europe wants to fight for an oil field it can't make an appeal to the wide world for help, for the wide world doesn't care who has the oil field so that it is somebody with the gumption to develop the oil.

Reports arrive that a Grecian army is rushing into Thrace. Only a short time ago the avowed plan was to get the Greeks out of Thrace and cause them to stay out. Apparently the program has been upset.

There hardly can be a doubt that at fighting the Turks single-handed, the Greek army has had enough, and a margin over. That it would rush back to the scene of former disaster, unless assured of the backing of powerful forces, is not likely. Therefore it is a safe conclusion that at least one government, and perhaps more, has assented to renewal of the war, and has promised the necessary backing.

When the Turk re-entered Europe, he came with his chest unduly swelled out. Now the changes are that his exit may be accomplished soon, and after he had gone, the gate be barred.

But what would it profit Greece to win a victory over the Turk? The chances are that whatever the spoils, Greece would not have the apportioning of them.

Perhaps Mr. Ford has a publicity agent under bond to get the name of the great man into print every day. This is not a hard task, for Ford does many things, and some of them very much worth while. But he does not frequently buy a Michigan county for the sake of the timber, and he does not, as a fixed habit, buy a great slice of Kentucky in order to get the coal there.

It is highly probable that Ford never knows of the interviews with himself in which he exploits his novel financial ideas.

At the last presidential election, out of a total of 26,786,758 votes, 16,152,200 were republican. A handful of republicans terming themselves insurgents mustered 360 votes.

Now these insurgents want to run the whole works; or to toss a wrench into them.

Miss Belle McCord Roberts is running the Long Beach Telegram. That she is equal to the large task is the belief of all her friends. She has had experience in many lines of newspaper work, and from her father, the late Frank Roberts, she inherited journalistic instinct and ability.

An old saying of Jay Gould's that all a man got out of life was his board and clothes is being quoted again.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The lady wife came in with a new proposition at the dinner table last night. She said she had determined to reform her way of living, and, as a matter of course, my way of living also. It has been years since Mrs. Pilgrim has used this form of statement:

"I will do this and that in the future."

She always says:

"We will do this and that in the future."

And usually we do, which is beside the point. What Mrs. Pilgrim had discovered is that we were not getting enough out of life. It did no good for me to argue that our neighbors are getting no more than we do. We all do about the same things. We play bridge, go to the movies, now and then to the theater when something is offered which is not a strident insult to our intelligence, read two novels a week on the nights when we do not go out, sleep late on Sunday morning, and eat church.

"There is not one thing in our weekly program which is more than mere time-killing," she pointed out. "Our minds are dead in the shell. We cannot get out of life what life offers us unless we work."

Honest, I think she is right about it, although this habit of social laziness has grown on me until I dread the thought of breaking new ground. Nevertheless, I know that if I could read Spanish I could get in touch with a world that is today closed to me. And if I could read German I could judge for myself, by a study of the German papers, what is going on in Bohemia, instead of taking the prejudiced and naturally unfair reports of people, who for very good reasons indeed, dislike all goose-steppers. I might add a third language and discover what it is that Mussolini is planning in Italy. I know very well that European news is passed through a filter-paper of censorship and propaganda, until the colorless residue is what the Europeans think is fit for American consumption.

"We are just on the edge of life," Mrs. Pilgrim declared, passionately. "We are not more than half alive. We just fluff through the world without thinking or doing. We cannot get all that life offers us unless we really work. There comes a time when a life that is merely pleasant becomes an appalling bore."

Doc Henneberry said it first. He said the most discontented man or woman in this world is the one who does the heaviest loafing.

BROADWAY BAKERY SPUR TRACK TO BAKERS CROWD GOOD GUESSERS PASSES TO NEW HANDS NEW CITY LAND IS ASSURED PENDROY'S FOR BIG SALE ALL WIN FORD OF RADKE

George Von Mohnlein and W. A. Lemke, Experts, Purchase Business

The Broadway Bakery, 116 West Broadway, has passed into new hands, Messrs. George Von Mohnlein and W. A. Lemke, two expert bakery men, having purchased the same. The sale was consummated today and the two gentlemen are in charge.

They are highly recommended as bakers of exceptional ability, and promise to give the public a service that will please the most exacting. Mr. Mohnlein comes from Yakima, Wash., while his partner is from San Francisco. Mr. Mohnlein has been in the bakery business for thirty years, while his partner has been employed in the best bakeries in San Francisco and other large cities. They invite the Glendale public to visit their bakery. Now and different bakery goods will be added from time to time.

LOW BACK EAST RATES ARE ANNOUNCED

The Southern Pacific company in 1923 will place in effect substantially the same low summer rates offered by that company last season, according to announcement by Chas. S. Fee, passenger traffic manager. The back east fares from California common points (round trip) will be as follows:

To Ogden and Salt Lake City, $48.82; to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, $64; to Omaha and Kansas City, $72; to Chicago, $86; to St. Louis, $81.50; to New Orleans, $85.15.

Corresponding rates will be made to other eastern destinations. The westbound summer tourist fares to San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles and San Diego will be the same as the back east fares shown above. Announcement of sale dates and other details will be made later.

Courtesy is like the air in times. It costs nothing and it certainly does smooth out the bumps.

Industrial Agent Gives Assurance of Southern Pacific Co-operation

At the meeting of Mr. Smurr, industrial agent of the Southern Pacific Company, and City Manager Reeves, Saturday, the railroad representative stated that he would be more than glad to run a spur track onto the new property consisting of 33 acres recently purchased by Glendale on the west side of town.

Mr. Smurr stated also that he would be able to fill up that section with first-class industries within a few weeks, if Glendale officials cared to have him do so.

The spur will be 1500 feet long. The ground is now being platted by the city engineers so that the various pieces of ground may be leased to the industries in a systematic way.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MEETING
The regular meeting of the Glendale lodge of Knights of Columbus, of which Harry Girard is grand knight, will be held Wednesday night, January 3, at the new clubhouse, 330 East Lomita avenue. Important matters of business will be taken up at this meeting, including an entertainment program for the next ninety days.

WATCH SERVICE AT THE PACIFIC AVE. METHODIST

The special meetings at the Pacific Avenue Methodist Church began Sunday with large attendance and fine interest. The Watch Night meeting proved to be of special attraction, many remaining for the final service. The Corner Trio captivated the people with their singing and readings. Wednesday night they will present a patriotic program in which Mrs. Helen Conner-Nern will appear in pantomime as the Goddess of Liberty. The veterans of all organizations and their women's auxiliaries are invited as the guests of the church for this program.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett and family of Oxnard were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deal, 237 North Louise street.

Testify to the Value of the Pledge of Bargains, Well Advertised

The crowd which assembled at Pendroy's Store this morning before the doors opened testified to the value of the splendid advance advertising that had been done in the New Year's edition of the Glendale Press. It was real metropolitan advertising and Glendale responded. By 10 o'clock clerks were very busy in all departments waiting upon customers attracted by the bargains offered.

The mezzanine floor will soon be ready for use by patrons and without trespassing in any way upon the light and air of the main floor it is adding tremendously in selling space of the establishment. There the lamps will be displayed and the tables for classes that are studying arts and crafts will be placed where in the intervals of work they can witness the panorama of activities in the big store and where they will have every facility as learners.

With this addition Mr. Pendroy hopes to have room enough for growth during the year but is anticipating that a considerable enlargement will be needed by 1924.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

SAMUEL ROBBINS
Samuel Robbins passed away at his home at 122 Delaware avenue, Eagle Rock, January 2, 1923, at the age of 78 years. He was a resident of Glendale for five years, moving to Eagle Rock with his daughter three months ago. Mr. Robbins leaves a widow, Amanda P. Robbins, and three daughters, Mrs. Bertha Wilson of Eagle Rock and Mrs. C. A. Stockbridge of 610 West California avenue. The body will be taken to Sawtelle cemetery where services will be held and interment made at the Sawtelle cemetery. Jewel City Undertaking company in charge.

ILA MAUD COLLETTE
Ila Maud Collette passed away at her home, 123 Fairview avenue, December 31, 1922, at the age of 48 years. She had been a resident of Glendale for five months, coming here from San Francisco, where she was widely known by her business ability. She leaves a widow, William W. Collette, and two daughters, Miss Blanche Collette and Mrs. Hazel O'Brien. The body will be taken to the Pacific funeral home, 1237 North Louise street, where services will be held and interment made at the Sawtelle cemetery. Jewel City Undertaking company in charge.

The big contest for a Ford, conducted by Ed N. Radke, the popular jeweler-closed today, after a whirlwind finish. Counting of the votes was delayed on account of the absence of the judge at the Rose Tournament yesterday.

There were six tickets placed in the box which had the correct number of pumpkin seeds, as follows: Tickets Nos. 4531, 3104, 963, 3352, 2984 and 2482. So far only two owners of the above tickets have shown up. The judges were Mayor Spencer Robinson, Ripley Jackson and W. C. Waring. Mr. Radke is anxious to give a square deal, and the six winning tickets, as soon as the owners' names have been secured, will be placed in a hat and the first one drawn will get the Ford, providing the name of the owner of the winning ticket has been secured.

Mrs. Prindville, Cedar street, held one of the lucky tickets, and a local newspaper reporter has another lucky number. Who will get the ticket remains to be seen.

Six thousand tickets were placed in the box, and the contest was conducted in a fair and square manner to all concerned. The pumpkin, although very large in size, held few seeds, the exact number being 44. Many people took their information from the pumpkin contest at Pendroy's recently, when 687 seeds were found in a pumpkin about the same size. However, many guessed as high as 2000 seeds and some as low as 100 seeds.

BUILDING PERMITS
The following building permits were issued up to noon today:

'BETTER IS THE END THAN THE BEGINNING'

Dr. Funk Preaches Striking New Year Sermon
at Lutheran Church

Speaking in his "Farewell to the Old Year," at the First Lutheran church Sunday, Dr. Funk said: "The man of old gave utterance to the words of our text, 'Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof.' True, there is a touch of sadness in the passing of the old year. The same thing is true of the falling of the leaves and the autumn season; but is not the gathering of the golden grain and the luscious fruit better than the sowing and the planting?"

"Life should not be measured by years, but by deeds, thoughts and opportunity. It is true that Methuselah lived to be 969 years old, but he did not know as much, neither did he do as much as men 40 years of age do today. "I met a grandfather the other day, and when I inquired about the boys I said to him, 'You think just as much of those boys as you did of your own, don't you?' His reply was 'sometimes I believe I think more of them.' And of a truth, an old man or an aged mother has more to love, and more to love them, than when the children are brought up to honor father and mother. There are those who would like to go back to the beginning of the year, or back to the beginning of their lives, and correct the mistakes that they have made. The desire is a worthy one, but there is something better than going back again. It is infinitely better to profit by the bitter experiences of the past and make a wiser use of the time that now is, and let the last days be better than the first. And if you have not been walking in the straight and narrow way, it were better to begin right now; for, by the grace of God, the right of choice is yours, and the days are passing swiftly by."

"Still on—as silent as a ghost! Seems but a score of days all told; Or but a month or two at most. Since our last New Year's song was tolled. And lo! that 'New Year' now is old. And here we stand to say good-bye!"

Brief words—and yet, we scarce know why. They bring a moisture to the eye. And to the heart some quakes and aches.

We speak them very tenderly. With half a sob and half a sigh—'Old year, good-bye! Good-bye!'

MARY PICKFORD IN "TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY"

Devotees of the cinema art are going to have the opportunity of seeing "Tess of the Storm Country" again and therein lies a tale of more than passing interest.

In the first place, this was the picture in which Mary Pickford scored one of those earlier big screen triumphs, which insured her immortal fame and inspired the populace of the whole country to proclaim her "America's Sweetheart." That was just eight years ago, for this epochal photoplay had its inning in 1914.

Now, in this 1922, in her new "Tess of the Storm Country," a United Artists' release, at the T. D. & L. theatre today, Mary Pickford will be seen for a second time as Tess in an elaborated version of Grace Miller White's celebrated story. The "Queen of the Screen" re-created this lovable character before the camera at the Pickford-Fairbanks studio at Hollywood and this notable revival is now being presented internationally.

During the last year Miss Pickford has received thousands of requests from admirers to re-enact the beloved character of Tess and she has acceded to the wishes of her followers, being further actuated by a desire to improve upon her artistic achievement to such an extent as to make the characterization live.

The version of 1914 was in five reels and it was played until all the "prints" were worn out. Now, with the improvements made in the film-making industry, it will be possible to preserve the new conception so that it may entertain generations of the distant future.

MIDWINTER ISSUE OF L. A. TIMES IS READY

Again the Los Angeles Times has issued a great Midwinter number, the annual message of the people of the Southland to other states and other countries. The publishers announce that this year's number, issued on New Year's Day is by far the largest edition in point of number of copies ever issued by them. A large majority of the big edition goes to other states and recognizing this quality of circulation the publishers have filled the edition with a great mass of information in text and pictures well calculated to interest and inform people who are interested in Southern California, but who do not live here.

POSTPONE FOOTHILL MEETING
Mrs. M. B. Buckman, secretary of the Foothill Improvement association, announces that the meeting which was to have been held this evening, has been postponed subject to call and that when it does take place it will be in the nature of a New Year's party.

EASTERN EDITOR REVIEWS CROWDS AT PASADENA

Declares State Needs a Constabulary to Handle
Such Crushes

BY R. J. JESSUP,
Formerly of the Springfield Republican.

The rush and crush of automobiles yesterday afternoon, following the close of the Rose Tournament in Pasadena, was a caution to underclass college rushes. The experiences of the morning, especially on roads leading into Pasadena from the west, were strenuous enough, and the delays were trying to the average temper; but they were insignificant as compared with what followed in the afternoon, and more than once could be heard the remark from visitors, "California certainly does need a state police." The streets flanking the line of march were lined with "sleeping autos," for a long distance in all directions from the town center, the worst congestion perhaps being within a radius of half a mile from Orange Grove avenue and Colorado street. As soon as the parade was over, as if by preconcerted action, this great mass of cars—thousands of them—began to move into Orange Grove avenue and Colorado street east and west—practically in all directions.

The Pasadena police had their hands more than full in the morning, but this new movement overtaxed their energies, and innumerable delays resulted that were often exasperating. "Everybody" seemed desirous of moving in all directions at once "immediately if not sooner," and that there were not more accidents than there were was due to the good temper and patience of car drivers. The Hollywood stage, leaving the bus depot in Pasadena at 1 p. m. was one hour and 25 minutes reaching the western limits of the Annandale club grounds, and it was from this point for half a mile through and beyond the big cut that the roadway was absolutely blocked by three lines of automobiles all eastward bound for the ball game, although the left side of the roadway should by law have been left unobstructed for west bound traffic. There were no officers there to enforce regular thoroughfare, so that westbound cars only managed to get through by a sort of filtering or percolating process requiring 30 minutes or more. In fact it was not until Eagle-Rock town limits were reached that straight thoroughfare was secured. Had the city or county authorities been awake to the situation, this irritating delay would not have occurred; and what is said of the congestion here was typical of similar troubles elsewhere. But for these afternoon delays, the football game would have opened with a larger attendance. Many people left automobiles within a limit of two miles to walk in to see what they could of the game. A state police force would have vastly simplified matters.

It may be remarked here, that at the Yale-Harvard annual races on the Thames at New London, Conn., 50 policemen are sent up from New York, and 50 more are sent down from Boston, sworn in as deputy sheriffs, and placed on local duty. This naturally suggests the question: Why cannot a squad of police be sent up from Los Angeles to do duty in and around Pasadena during this annual Rose Tournament? There were cars in Pasadena yesterday from New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma, Georgia, Wyoming, Texas, North and South Dakota, and other states.

OLD GRIMES

Old Grimes was the boss, in the days long gone by, With a heart that was kind and a smile in his eye; He had worked his way up and he knew all the joys—

And the sorrows of those who were known as "the boys." He was not free of speech, just a word here and there, And what was to do, he did always his share. But he honored good work, and the hearts of us stirred

With his pat on the back and encouraging word.

Old Grimes didn't lecture, or tell us about The virtues of labor with speech long drawn out; He didn't fly off if things sometimes went wrong. He kept his speech short and his hours quite long. But his keen eye was quick as he went through the shop To see a good job, and he'd not fail to stop With his pat on the back and the word that he had For a good bit of work and his hearer was glad.

Old Grimes was no preacher or teacher and yet He knew a good job and he'd never forget The pat on the back and the smile and the word Till the heart of the workman was lifted and stirred. A human old fellow who knew how to raise The spirit of men with a word of just praise, And that pat on the back as old Grimes would walk through Made jobs that were better and men better too.

SECOND EPISTLE OF JOHN IS THE CLASS SUBJECT

Keith L. Brooks spoke to the men's Bible class in the city hall Sunday morning, Dec. 31, as follows:

"The second epistle of John is an evangelist's private letter to a widowed lady whose children he had met in the course of his travels after having led the family to the Lord in earlier years. With Paul's epistles to Philemon and Timothy it is the only remains we have of the private apostolic correspondence, and for this reason it is of great interest even apart from its intrinsic worth. Apart from Christian usages, woman is little accounted of in Bible lands even to this day. Orientals are often astonished to find that two books of the Old Testament bear the names of women and that one book of the New Testament is a letter written by an apostle to a woman."

"How it must have filled this woman's heart with motherly delight to get this letter from the apostle, in which he says 'I rejoiced greatly that I found thy children walking in the truth as we received commandment from the Father.' Their Christian walk was no doubt traceable to the religious training of the home. This was indeed a fit subject for congratulation. How good it is to see children walking in the steps of their godly parents, and what a comfort to the parents to be reminded that they have brought forth children for heaven and for God."

"The apostle goes on to warn her against many deceivers who were entered into the world, who 'confess that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh.' The veritable humanity of the Son of God is a strong point in all the writings of John. In this age, when men are substituting something they call 'the spirit of Christianity' for Christ himself, we need to hold fast to this which is the very essence of the Gospel: 'The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us.' Those who deny this, John declares, are followers of the anti-Christ. John's list of condemnatory names applied to erroneous teachers includes liars, deceivers, false prophets, seducers and antichrists."

"His next warning is significant. 'Any one who is advanced and will not remain by the doctrine of Christ, does not possess God.' This clearly refers to those who go beyond the Gospel, advanced thinkers who think the Gospel will do for the ignorant masses but they themselves must have higher intellectual standards. There is such a thing as advancing over the precipice and deserting first principles. This is not progress but apostasy. It is not going forward but going back to the devil's lie. The doctrine of Christ is appointed of God to guide men into salvation. The great God has placed His seal to it throughout the centuries. Pity the man who trifles with it. He is playing with fire. He is meddling with the one thing God has used to pluck men out of hell on earth. John declares that such a man does not know God, however he may pride himself upon his advanced thinking. By all means, let us advance but let it be a healthy progress along the lines and within the lines of revealed truth.

"John goes so far as to warn this woman against entertaining in her house anyone who thus subverts the faith. John is the apostle of love but he hates the devil's delusions. He sees God's truth as His great instrument for saving souls. He feels that one who mutilates it deprives it of its efficacy and helps on the empire of the devil. He would have no truce with such an one and he would not have a Christian harbor one under his roof. He even says we are not to 'bid him God speed, for he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds.'"

"Some would say John is very intolerant, but where does the Bible ever regard heresy with tolerance? If a man believes anything let him be domestic. Dogma sours by hate or narrowed by stupidity makes a bigot. Let us avoid this. On the other hand, when a Christian realizes how precious the truth of God is and what an awful thing it is to misguide a needy, dying soul, he cannot for a moment countenance that which contradicts the doctrine of Christ. If we cannot prevent the fatal errors that are abroad today, we can at least refuse to share in the guilt of them, either by our culpable silence or indifference."
